"Oratorical Messiah," Manchester, N. H., March 31, 1905: With the opening solo by Mr. George J. Parker, "Comfort Ye My People," the audience became convinced that a fine musical treat was in store, and such was the case. Mr. Parker has a full high tenor voice, and he had no trouble in filling the big auditorium without any apparent effort. Barre Opera House, Thursday evening, November 15.

The teachers and officers of the Presbyterian Sunday school held a very profitable business meeting last evening at the home of Mrs. Maud MacIver on Perry street. The officers for the ensuing year were elected and plans were made to the Christmas entertainment, to be held on the evening of December 22. After the conclusion of the business a social hour was spent, and refreshments were served by the hostess.

As W. B. Dwyer was driving from this city to Williamstown yesterday afternoon his horse became frightened at an automobile which he met near the Smith farm. The horse bolted and Mr. Dwyer was thrown out and somewhat injured, but was able to follow the horse and catch it. The wagon and harness were somewhat in need of repairs. No blame attaches to the automobilists, as the machine was run to the side of the road and stopped.

NORTH MONTPELIER.

The Male Choral Art club of Boston consisting of the Ruggles street, Albion and Corinthian Quartets are to give a grand concert at Barre opera house, Thursday evening, November 15th. It will be a fine chance for the people of North Montpelier to attend such a rich musical as seldom if ever comes this way, and many from here and other surrounding towns are planning on attending. Arrangements have been made for a limited number of exchange tickets to be sold here and they can be procured of J. W. Butterfield.

WHAT OPEN SHOP MEANS.

Simply an Open Back Door to Throw the Union Men Out.

Clarence Darrow was the chief speaker at the Labor day exercises at Spokane, Wash. Mr. Darrow said in part:

"Organized laborers parade on Labor day a half a million strong, and they are addressed by lawyers, and they in turn elect these lawyers to be judges. In turn they are sent to jail by those lawyers. With all the strength you show on Labor day you haven't a representative in congress, and you vote for one or the other of the old political parties because your grandfathers did so before you. The majority of people cannot live except by working, and with all your millions you have not a man on the federal bench."

Judges in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred are picked from the offices of some great corporation. Good lawyers work for big fees, and the corporations get these lawyers.

"With the lawyers of corporations elected to judgehips it is but natural that the judges should go on the bench with all the prejudices of the corporations. These judges believe the capitalist is everything and the laboring man is nothing."

"If one of these corporations wants to enjoin 10,000 men from striking, the judge enjoins them, and they call forward the president of the labor union and put him in jail without the need of a jury. They tell us this is within the law, and it is within the law. All over this broad land you cannot pick out one of these judges who has an interest in organized labor. We are told that we must not criticize the courts. When did it occur in America that a man became so powerful that he must not be criticized? You men select these courts, and yet you wonder why they send you to jail without trial by jury."

"It is amusing to have these corporations and the newspapers tell you that they are friendly to the unions so long as the unions do not interfere with them. If you do anything opposing them, you are not so friendly. The newspapers tell us there is no real conflict between capital and labor, and preachers and politicians tell you the same thing. Then they say we are stirring up trouble. Let us see the facts. The more an employer pays for labor, the raw material, the less he has for himself. It is the intention of employers to work employees as long as possible and for the smallest wages possible. On the other hand, the laborer wants the shortest workday and the best wages he can get. There has always been a conflict between capital and labor. The employers say that labor is all right if it does not interfere with their business, and if it does interfere, it is bad."

"Newspapers say they believe in trades unions. But they want to have the open shop. You can respect the man who stands openly and opposes unionism. But when a man asks for the open shop and pretends to be your friend he is deceiving you. With the open shop trades unionism must fail."

"There was a time when to ask for higher wages was a criminal offense. It was also a jailable offense for two laborers to meet on the highway and discuss higher wages. The laborer was a criminal, and the first labor unions were organized in caves and in the forests, where bloodhounds could not follow the organizers. Every step that labor has made has been taken at a fearful cost. In America progress has been made against the courts and in spite of the courts. In Pennsylvania a man was sent to jail without trial by jury because he asked an employer to employ union labor instead of non-union labor. In Chicago they have sent men to jail because they have asked men to lay down their tools and strike for higher wages. In full times the union man is the first to be made to walk the plank. The nonunion man is given the soft job, and the union man is given the job that means he takes his life in his hands. The open shop means an open back door to throw the union men out."

Labor Man Honored.

John Bishley Whalen, the Independent League and Democratic nominee for secretary of state of the state of New York, is a labor unionist. He was one of the national organizers of the Tobacco Workers' International union as well as president of the Rochester local union. He has served three terms as president of the Central Trade and Labor council of Rochester, but has never held political office. He is thirty-eight years old.

Protection From Autumn Rains!

One of the best all-round garments made is the "Cravenette," or Rain Coat. Any suitable fabric may be cravenetted, which is a chemical process making any cloth waterproof. This gives the wide range of attractive fabrics which are made into "Sincerity" Rain Coats. Men who pride themselves on the correctness of their attire consider this garment necessary for wear in rainy weather alone. But it serves the double purpose of being equally as good for cool, sunshiny days or a protection against rain. Our "Sincerity" Rain Coats range in price from $10.00 to $20.00. They are skeleton lined with inside tailoring to give them permanence of shape in the collars, shoulders and front.

"Sincerity" Suits and Overcoats!

We have a great line of these garments this season. We aim to constantly better our service and be "different," and as far as the claim of "best" is concerned we are willing that you make a comparison of values and prices.

"Sincerity" Suits From - - $10.00 to $22.00
"Sincerity" Overcoats From - - 10.00 to 25.00
